ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I wish to acknowledge my sincere gratitude, indebtedness and respect for the untiring help I received from my supervisor Prof. M. A. Quraishi, Department of Chemistry, Indian Institute of Technology (Banaras Hindu University), Varanasi under whose inspiring guidance, indefatigable affords, giving the right direction towards the successful completion of research work. He always extended me a helping hand in all phases of my work despite his other important preoccupations. The knowledge and experience that I gained from him will always enlighten my future life. Working under his supervision and guidance always remained as a matter of deep satisfaction.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to Prof. R. B. Rastogi, Head of the Department of Chemistry, Indian Institute of Technology (Banaras Hindu University), Varanasi for her open handed generous help, fruitful discussion and providing me all necessary facilities during the progress of research work. I further express my gratefulness to all faculty members of Department of Chemistry for their technical support and suggestions.

I greatly appreciate the help of my lab members and seniors for their helpful and constructive suggestions during the research work. I am also thankful to all staff members of the Department of Chemistry, Indian Institute of Technology (Banaras Hindu University), Varanasi for their help at various stages in every possible way during the stay at the department. Thanks are due to many others whose names I have not mentioned here for their valuable help during the work.

I am highly grateful to Indian Institute of Technology (Banaras Hindu University), Varanasi for providing me all necessary facilities during my research work.

Finally, I would like to take this opportunity to thank my parents and my family members for their unceasing encouragement and being pillars of support in my personal life through all ups and downs during my Ph.D.
